Clinician Charles Pinnell has developed a reputation for his unique and logical teaching methods, bringing out the best in a horse and rider and creating the trust and bond needed to achieve a competitive edge. Born and raised in South Africa, Charles has ridden and competed since the age of 5. His equestrian credentials span three countries including Europe, South Africa, and the U.S. and bring a wealth of experience to his clinics.

Competing on horses owned by the Queen of England, saddling thoroughbreds in some of the world's richest races, and winning top level three day events are some of his career highlights. "I can't teach you to ride in three days but I can help you and your horse become happier together and be a lot more effective as a team," said Pinnell from his base in Chagrin Falls, Ohio. Saturday evening the clinic participants will have the opportunity to share in a lecture session with Charles. It will be a fun social gathering after a hard day of riding. A picnic style buffet dinner will be provided for clinic participants and staff. Please bring a chair.
